ATTORNEY FAVOR NON-PARTISAN JUDGES

Oklahoma City, Ok., Dec. 30.—Adopting a resolution creating a committee to prepare and initiate a constitutional amendment of the election of a nonpartisan judiciary from county judge to supreme court, to provide for nine members of the supreme court instead of five and do away with the present supreme court commission, the Oklahoma Bar Association completed the most important work of the convention this evening and adjourned. Officers for the ensuing year were also elected, as were the executive committee and the general council. The annual banquet was held tonight. The association Monday went on record as favoring the election of a nonpartisan judiciary and to make it possible to install such a system it authorized a committee this evening to do all the necessary work to prepare for the election necessary in amending a constitutional provision. The matter of selecting the next place of meeting was left with the executive committee.

The officers elected are C. O. Blake of El Reno, president; Walter A. Lybrand of Oklahoma City, secretary. Executive Committee—C. O. Blake, El Reno, chairman; James H. Gordon, McAlester; John H. Kane, Bartlesville; A. T. West, Coalgate; John T. Hays, Hobart; C. H. Ennis, Pawnee; W. H. Kornegar, Vinita; Walter A. Lybrand, Oklahoma City. General Council—W. T. Hutchins, Muskogee, chairman; Herbert M. Peck, Oklahoma City; T. P. Clay, Mangum; W. E. Utterback, Durant; C. G. Moore, Purcell; W. H. Fuller, McAlester; Paul B. Mason, Pawhuska.

INSURGENTS VICTORIOUS

MEXICAN FEDERALS MAY BE DRIVEN ACROSS RIO GRANDE
BORDER CLOSELY GUARDED.

Presidio, Tex., Dec. 30.—The battle between 5,000 insurgents under Gen. Toribio Ortega and the northern division of the Mexican Federal Army, entrenched around Ojinaga, Mexico, across the border from this place, still was in progress when darkness fell tonight. No bullets came across the border. The forces had been engaged for thirty-six hours and many had been killed and wounded.

Gen. Ortega, executing a series of flank movements, steadily kept on the offensive, gaining foot by foot the approaches to the federal stronghold. The federal forces, crippled and disorganized by the first onslaught, clung to the hillside trenches where their leaders had decided to make a last stand. They rallied somewhat from the panic that seized many of them with

The first volley of the insurgents when daylight disclosed the position of Ortega's men, and put up a plucky fight with heavy odds, and their losses were heavy from wounds and desertions. Many wounded and deserters waded waist deep through the river to the American side.

It was impossible to even approximate the number of dead and wounded. Fifteen federal wounded, who waded the river, were allowed to remain, and were cared for by United States Army physicians, but several score wounded federal deserters were disarmed by the United States border patrol under Major McNamers and sent back across the border.

Army officers were convinced casualties had been heavy and Red Cross representatives sent requests for more help and hospital supplies. They also requested permission to cross the border to attend the wounded on the battlefield. Neither of the opposing forces is provided with hospital facilities, and the wounded have been left on the hill sides where they fell.

Although 5,000 insurgents were engaged, much of their fire was ineffective in the early hours of the battle because of the position they occupied below the village.

Ojinaga, a cluster of adobe buildings, stands a mile from the border at the top of high hills which line the valley through which the insurgents advanced. When day dawned, Ortega's men had gained the foot of a hill three miles from the village, where the federals had planted a fort to command approaches to the town. They spread along the hillside and opened a fire which was maintained all day and which was supported by ten machine guns they had dragged across the desert from Chihuahua.

Foot by foot the insurgents approached the federal trenches the government troops retiring until as darkness fell all federals who had not fled were huddled in the shelter of the town itself.

A small federal force made a gallant stand in the custom house, which stands on an elevation midway between the village proper and the plain. They fired a hail of bullets across the main approach to the town and for a time held the opposing forces in check. As the day wore on, however, the sputtering fire from the loopholes of the custom house gradually diminished and finally ceased entirely. When their last cartridge had been fired the little handful of federals deserted the building and scurried across the mile and a half separating them from their comrades in the town. Their retreat gave the insurgents an additional advantage of position.

Although the insurgents tonight appeared to have much advantage, the outcome of the struggle was not clearly defined. That the federals will surrender is improbable, because Gen. Ortega has explicit orders to execute the so-called volunteers and their commanders, Gen. Pascual Orozco, Ynes, Sahar, Antonio Rojas, Blas Orpinal, Lazaro Alariz and Roque Gomez. Eighteen hundred volunteers also come

NO STRIKE OF TELEGRAPH OPERATORS

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 30.—A strike of telegraphers on the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad was averted late this afternoon when the receivers of the road reached an agreement with the grievance committee of the Order of Railway Telegraphers. The receivers refused tonight to give out details of the settlement, but will make them public when terms are formally drawn up. It was announced, however, that concessions had been made by both sides. The terms probably will be drawn up tomorrow.

The settlement was effected late this afternoon at a conference between W. T. Tyler, general manager of the Frisco, and the grievance committee of the telegraphers' union. This conference took place after the receivers and the union committee apparently had reached a deadlock.

The terms of settlement agreed on by the general manager and the committee later were approved by the receivers and the fact that a strike had been averted then was announced.

CORN SILAGE KEEPING WELL

A report recently circulated in Ada and in this vicinity that the corn silage in Floyd's concrete silo had spoiled and Mr. Floyd was dumping the ensilage. On Wednesday Mr. M. J. Bentley, Oklahoma state agent, U. S. Department of Agriculture and Mr. Ellis, Pontotoc County Demonstration agent made an examination and found the ensilage in good condition and Mr. Floyd is now feeding this ensilage to his stock.

AFTER DISHWASHING Use Gwin's Favorite Cream

That's what a lady told us yesterday. She said "I always use Gwin's Favorite Cream after washing dishes, and my hands never chap, but if I'd fail to use it I'll surely get in trouble."

Use it after dishwashing, use it after driving out, use when you come in from the show at night, use it after motoring, use Gwin's Favorite Cream for Chapped hands, rough skin, peeled lips, sallow complexion and as a skin beautifier. It is neither sticky nor greasy, dries freely and gloves can be worn soon after using it.

SOCIALISTS PLAN ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

Oklahoma City, Dec. 31.—The Socialist party of Oklahoma in annual convention at the courthouse Tuesday went on record as favoring the sending of a "circuit rider" into every county in the state to preach the gospel of Socialism to every creature. A "circuit rider," as defined by a Socialist upon the floor of the convention, is an organizer, one who goes to every corner of the county to organize branches of the state and national organization. One "circuit rider" is to be placed in each county in Oklahoma during the year 1914. These "riders" will be paid a salary for their efforts, a new departure from former practices of the party in Oklahoma.

A resolution embodying the above plan was unanimously adopted Tuesday morning, following a report of State Secretary H. M. Sinclair. The secretary's report shows that the state party organization is free of debt and with money in the treasury; that the dues-paying membership has increased 1,000 during the last three months of the year; that 150 new locals have been organized in Oklahoma during 1913; that the political organization of the party to conform to the state laws has been perfected in three-fourths of the counties; that only nine counties were not organized at the close of the year, and that the sale of Socialist literature and the demand for speakers throughout Oklahoma during the year has been unprecedented. The secretary in his reports made a prediction, based upon statements from forty field workers, that the Socialist party would poll 80,000 votes in the 1913 state election.

The convention passed resolutions of sympathy for the sufferers of the Calumet, Mich., disaster on Christmas eve, and appropriated $50 for the children of the strikers of that city.

Tell your neighbor about the telegraph service which will be put on by the News Monday. By helping to increase its circulation you will be insuring a continuance of this service, thereby giving you a much better paper for the same money it costs you now.

Among the other things the press of the state should look after when the legislature convenes again is a fair libel law. Under the present law, which has been trimmed somewhat by court decisions, the press is badly handicapped. No one wants the bars against malicious slander thrown down, but when a man is caught with the goods a paper should be allowed to tell about it without running the risk of a libel suit. Let the truth be told.

It is not to be wondered at the lax law enforcement. A sheriff lays out at night in the cold rain or snow to catch a law violator. Then some cheap politician up along the line decides he should be merciful and the detective work, the efforts of the county attorney and witnesses go naught. Do you wonder at them swearing? In order to appreciate this you go out a few nights and watch where you were in

STATE TEACHERS ELECT OFFICERS

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 31.—In an exciting, stormy election, Prof. J. C. Masters, principal of the Oklahoma City high school, Tuesday afternoon was elected president of the Oklahoma Educational association for the next year succeeding Dr. Stratton D. Brooks of the state university. Before all the officers had been selected the session became so stormy that Dr. Brooks, who was presiding, rapped for order and announced the work would be concluded at the next general meeting Wednesday morning. Delegates were standing in their chairs shouting in an effort to be heard above the confusion.

The other officers elected at the session Tuesday afternoon were Edwin S. Monroe, Muskogee, vice president; Robert Balyew, Enid, secretary-treasurer. Wednesday morning the member of the executive committee succeeding the member whose time has expired will be designated. The fact that the officers this year were elected by the new method of nominating and balloting on the floor of the convention was responsible for the confusion and excitement attending the election.

In the past the officers were named by an electoral commission, the members of which were chosen by the various county educational organizations. With several others, Mr. Masters of Oklahoma City and Mr. Monroe of Muskogee were nominated for the office of president. On the first ballot all candidates were eliminated save the two having the greatest number of votes. Mr. Masters then was elected over his opponent by a substantial majority and on motion of a Monroe supporter the election was declared unanimous.

Mr. Monroe was elected vice president by unanimous vote. It was after Mr. Balyew had been elected secretary-treasurer that the trouble started. A supporter of James B. Freysbur of Wetumka, his closest opponent arose from his seat and shouted that the election had been unfair because the votes of teachers not present had been counted in favor of the winner. After friends of Balyew had pointed out that the teachers had registered and expressed their convictions the chair decided their votes should be counted.

During the confusion the women delegates in attendance kept their seats and remained perfectly quiet. They made no effort to join either side in the wrangle.

A resolution was adopted by unanimous vote Tuesday authorizing the executive committee of the association to affiliate with the Oklahoma Panama-Pacific exposition commission in providing a fitting educational exhibit representative of this state at the big San Francisco exposition in 1915. The resolution was offered by Dr. S. M. Barrett of the University of Oklahoma.

U. C. V. MEETING SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Confederate veterans will hold their regular monthly meeting at the court house. At this meeting they will elect officers for the coming year. It is especially desired that as many as possible of the Sons and Daughters be present on this occasion. Neither has held a meeting for several months and this is a considered an opportune time to take a new start.

Many Fights Billed for New Year.
Chicago, Ill., Dec. 31.—The New Year will be ushered in tomorrow with a festival of fistfights extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Though no championship bouts are on the calendar there are several contests billed that should afford some good entertainment for the fight fans. In a scheduled 20-round bout at Vernon, Cal. Leach Cross, the New York lightweight, will endeavor to repeat the trick of knocking out Bud Anderson, the Vancouver boy. Another fight that should be worth seeing will be the 10 round go at New Orleans between Johnny Runder and Freddie Welsh. Jack Dillon will take on Gus Christie for 10 rounds at Indianapolis and Joe Mandot and Earl Fisher are booked to go the same distance at Cincinnati. George Chip, the victor over Frank Klaus, is to meet Tony Caponi for 6 rounds at Pittsburgh. Another 6-round bout, at Philadelphia, Jack Britton will have Joe Hirst as an opponent.

New York's "Juvenile Democracy."
New York, Dec. 31.—The most unique election in the history of New York will be held tomorrow, when 40,000 or more children of the lower East Side will vote in the first primary election of a "juvenile democracy." The movement has been organized by the East Side Protective Association with a view to giving the future citizens a practical training in self-government and politics. The polling places will be at the public schools and assemblymen, congressmen, mayors and heads of municipal departments will be nominated. The general election will be held on Lincoln's birthday, when candidates leading in the primary will be voted on. The original idea was to limit the voting rights to the boys. The announcement to this effect, however, brought forth a vigorous protest from the girls, with the result that a proclamation granting equal suffrage was promptly issued.

OIL REPORT EXAGGERATED

From the Oklahoman.

Allen—The first reports of the well in section 32-6-10, seven miles due south of Calvin and eight miles due east of Allen were, as usual, greatly exaggerated. The well is now reported to be between 1,700 and 1,800 feet deep with oil showing.

“The Raid of the Human Tigers,” a fine three-reel feature, featuring Wm. Clifford and Phyllis Gordon, will be the program at the Grand this evening. Scenes laid in the wilds of India. The battle for life by a man who is chased into a pool inhabited by alligators is the most thrilling picture ever made.

H. P. Sugg, who has held a responsible position with the First National bank for several years, left this morning for Fitzhugh, where he will for several months, at least, hold a position in the bank of that place. Ada has no finer young man than Mr. Sugg and it is with deep regret that his hundreds of friends see him leave. However, the best wishes of all of them go with him.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready to use tonic called “Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy.” You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.

DECEMBER RAINFALL OVER 5 INCHES

H. P. Sugg, local weather observer, states that the rainfall at Ada for the month of December has been 5 12-100 inches. In a few days he will have the figures complete for the year and they will then be published.

A CASE OF BLACK PLAGUE in town would probably frighten the oldest inhabitant, but we are prepared for the necessary remedies even for that, and are supplied with the freshest stock of drugs to compound any kind of a doctor's prescription with the newest discoveries in medicines or drugs of any description. Our service is prompt and mistakes are unknown here.

ECHOES FROM COALGATE.
Coalgate Happenings Always Interest Our Readers.

After reading of so many people in our town who have been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills, the question naturally arises. "Is this medicine equally successful in our neighboring towns?"
The generous statement of this Coal-gate resident leaves no room for doubt on this point.
S. R. Barnes, Coalgate, Okla., says:
"For a couple of years I was bothered by sharp pains across my kidneys and too frequent passages of the kidney secretions. I had to get up several times at night. I took medicine but nothing benefited me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills. A couple of boxes made a permanent cure. I endorse Doan's Kidney Pills even more highly now than I did when I gave a testimonial before."

GOSSIP AROUND THE
NATIONAL CAPITAL

Washington, Dec. 31.—Despite opposition manifest by state universities in many sections of the country, Oklahoma included, to the Smith-Lever agricultural extension bill introduced at the last session of congress, it is a practically a certainty that the measure will be given the official sanction of congress when sessions are resumed after the holidays.

The Senate Committee on Agriculture of which Senator Gore is chairman has reported the measure which would extend federal aid to all agricultural and mechanical colleges desiring it. By this, national legislators believe that the cause of better and more scientific agriculture in this country would be promoted as never before in the history of the country, and in this day when it is recognized that the future of the nation rests with the farmer who is to supply the breadstuffs, it is necessary that there be marked advance in modern methods of tilling the soil.

A bill establishing a rural credits system in the U. S. also is to be acted upon and this measure is expected to follow much the lines of European systems, the federal commission of which Senator Gore was a member having reported fully on foreign schemes of aiding the agriculturist.

Senator Gore has several measures in mind which are intended to further enhance the welfare of the farmer and swing to the strong sentiment in congress and the nation, favorable action on the majority of these is expected.

Practically all members of the Oklahoma delegation in congress have remained in Washington for the holidays, shaping plans for their activities during the remainder of the regular session. Many measures of interest to the state are to be instigated
by them when the regular session resumes, they having deemed it practically impossible to gain much legislation before Christmas, the currency
and other big issues hanging fire.

Shortly after the house convenes
in January the general Indian appropriation bill will be reported from committee. Owing to the amount of appropriations yearly carried in this measure for the state of Oklahoma, it is deemed the most important from the state's standpoint and every member of the delegation will be on guard to see that each district in the state is properly cared for. Representative Carter who is ranking member of the House Indian Affairs committee has spent the Christmas holidays with other members of the committee in going over the provisions of the measure, culling appropriations here and adding there.

Oklahoma has had more say in the framing of the new currency measure than any other state in the union, having two members of the committee drafting the measure which now is receiving the plaudits of the country,
Senator Owen chairman of the banking and currency committee representing the state on the senate side and Representative Claude Weaver representing it on the house side. Both Oklahomans witnessed the signing of the measure by President Wilson, as did several other members of the delegation.

It having been estimated by the secretary of the Treasury that only $250,000 be set aside for the maintenance of the schools in the domain of the five civilized tribes, and it being the intention of the House Committee
not to increase this amount beyond $300,000, if at all, Senator Gore has introduced an amendment to the general Indian appropriation bill calling for the appropriation of $500,000 for this purpose.

In view of conditions reigning on the eastern side of the state, many counties being in dire financial straits Senator Gore believes that the federal government should render aid commensurate to the hardships worked by the supreme court decision making hundreds of thousands of acres of land untaxable.

In addition to asking for the increased amount, Senator Gore also has introduced an amendment providing that the schools under the jurisdiction of the Quawpaw agency shall share in the amount set aside in the bill. These schools never have been aided before.

Geo. A. Henshaw still has a fighting chance to be made a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, although his candidacy has faded somewhat in the past few days, inasmuch as it is the expressed wish of the White House to find some man for the place on the Pacific coast. The Pacific coast states are not now represented on the commission. Senator Gore, Senator Owen, and every member of the Oklahoma delegation, have urged the president to name Henshaw, Senator Gore who seems to have the administration's ear on patronage matters, being particularly active in regard to the matter. Commissioner Clements represents the middle west on the commission and if President Wilson changes his mind and decides to take a man from the central west
instead of the Pacific coast, Henshaw may be named, it being conceded that the third commissioner will be picked from the West.

Department of Interior officials
still are working on tangible plans for the inauguration of the irrigation system at Lawton, where the city has agreed to turn over its huge water system to the government for irrigation purposes. Senator J. Elmer Thomas has remained at the side of the Secretary of Interior and reclamation officials to explain all features of the proposed system.

It is generally conceded that if the state can obtain the government's aid in installing an irrigation plant at Lawton, then other proposed systems are more likely to be inaugurated.

Notwithstanding the fact that the amendment providing for a $100 per capita payment to the Choctaws and Chickasaw Indians of Oklahoma was stricken out of the last general Indian appropriation bill on a point of order, Senator Gore will resume his fight for the payment when the bill comes up in the senate for consideration, he having already introduced a bill on the subject.

Any payment to the Choctaws has been contested in both houses of congress because of the claims of the Mississippi Choctaws to a share in the tribal estate of the Oklahoma Indians, but, inasmuch as the department of interior has given the Mississippi Choctaws no encouragement in their claims, it is deemed likely the fight on further per capita payments to its Oklahoma Indians will cease. Senator Gore has fortified himself to make the fight of his life for the payments and is sure to have the assistance of Senator Owen and Oklahoma representatives on the house side of the capitol.

SERIOUS SICKNESS

Being Constantly Supplied With Thedford's Black Draught.

McDuff, Va.—"I suffer for several years," says Mrs. J. B. Whitaker, of this place, "with sick headache, and stomach trouble."

Ten years ago a friend told me to try Thedford's Black-Draught, which I did,
and I found it to be the best family medicine for young and old.

I keep Black-Draught in hand all the time now, and when my children feel a little bad, they ask me for a dose, and it does them more good than any medicine
they ever tried.

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced
using Black-Draught."

Thedford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, and has been found to regulate weak stomachs, aid digestion, relieve indigestion, colic, wind, nausea, headache, sick stomach and similar symptoms.

It has been in constant use for more than 70 years, and has benefited more than a million people.

GLASS OF SALTS
CLEAN KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder bothers you, drink lots of water

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys
and irritate the entire urinary tract.
Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts
which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood, in 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink
too much; also get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts;
take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation,
thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Call upon the editor of your local paper and talk with him over ways and means of co-operation between the town and the country. You will find the local editor anxious to advance the interest of rural people who make the town prosperous. Farm & Ranch.

Stopping one's paper because he is mad at the editor is just about as childish as taking a spoiled youngster out of school to spite the teacher. In both cases the result is the same: the paper and school still go on and the only one to lose anything is the one who sought to play even.

The Ada News says: "The name of our town may sound somewhat effeminate, but from a standpoint of commercial importance Ada is a full-grown man with whiskers and high-top boots." A populist, by all that's holy!—Ardmoreite.

GOVERNMENT BY FALSEHOOD.

The last legislature passed a law regulating the mining of coal in Oklahoma. The law contains numerous sections, one of which—Sec. 18—regulates the shooting of coal. It provides that coal shall not be shot "off the solid"—that it shall be undercut before being shot. The miners object to this provision and have filed petitions having this section referred to a vote of the people on August 5th. Only one section is referred and the only question is "Shall section 18 be repealed?"

Some power armed with a barrel of money has begun a widespread and determined campaign against the aforesaid section. Very generously they offer any newspaper who will accept the gift free plate matter opposing the repeal. It costs the papers nothing. It is furnished free. And quite a number of papers have accepted the service and are running columns of this "free" dope. And every paper that is running this matter is publishing columns that fairly bristle with the boldest falsehoods.

We have before us the advance proofs of the free argument. It declares that the people are to vote on repealing the entire bill, Lie Number One. It declares that it seeks to abolish miners' bath houses, that it seeks to abolish separate bath houses for negro miners, that it abolishes telephones in mines, that it abolishes the or tagging of cars in the mines, that it abolishes the provision naming the qualifications of Chief Mine Inspector, that it abolishes the penalty for interfering with a fire pass, and that it repeals the provision forbidding the shooting of coal off the solid.

The last statement is the only true one in the entire argument. The others are patent lies. The man who wrote them knew they were lies. The men who paid for this free service knew they were paying for lies. But they knew it is only three weeks till the election. They knew that the poison will be so scattered that it will be impossible to answer it or expose its falsity. The miners haven't the men or the money to combat this campaign of imposture. It looks as if their cause has already been lied to death.

As to the merits of section 18, we know very little. None but a miner can understand it as it is. But we are inclined to believe that no cause can be just that resorts to such criminal tactics as are being employed by those who oppose the repeal of section 18.—Wewoka Democrat.

Would Prevent Divorce.

Canton, O., July 19.—The holy bond of matrimony will not be the only bond that joins Miss Elizabeth Boldi of Canton, and Casian Bartt, Jr., of Youngstown, when they are wed tomorrow. To insure the wedded bliss of the young couple an iron-clad agreement, backed by bonds pledging a $700 farm and $700 cash, has been put up by the father of the prospective bride and bridegroom. The young people themselves have no doubt that their marriage will prove a happy one. They have sworn eternal love to one another and declare that the agreement and bonds are entirely superfluous, but the old folk, noting the increase of the divorce evil, decided to do all they could in a legal way to make the marriage stick so tight that it can never become unknotted. By the terms of the agreement the bridegroom's father promises that his son will never loaf, gamble, drink, play pool or dance with any young woman other than his wife. The bride's father, on the other hand, promises that his daughter will make her husband a model wife, will not gossip, run around with other men and will cook to the husband's satisfaction. A forfeiture of the $700 bond is to follow a violation of the promises made by either side.

MAKING OVER MAYBRIDGE

HOW ENERGETIC YOUNG MAN INFUSED NEW LIFE IN SLEEPING COMMUNITY.

"What is it the song says?" the young man murmured. "The old home ain't what it used to be."

He paused long enough to look up and down the main thoroughfare of the little town.

"The song's wrong," he said; then he quickly added, "more's the pity."

The young man had not reached his thirtieth year, was of a slender, wiry build, and his walk, the keenness of his expression and each of his mannerisms, bespoke enthusiasm and vigor.

It was dusk when he had left the train, the only passenger to alight at the dingy little station.

"Back home?" the venerable station master drawled.

"Yes, for the first time in ten years, Jim," the young man answered.

"Ain't nobody to meet you," said the official with a yawn.

"They don't know I've come," the traveler explained. "It's a surprise."

"Uh-huh," was the only acknowledgment the station-master gave as he picked up the mail-bag.

And now the young man was walking briskly up Main street on his way toward the old home.

"The Perkins block is still standing," he said as he looked up at a three-story, dilapidated brick building, "and I predicted ten years ago that the ramshackle old place would fall down before another winter."

He looked across the road.

"Upon my word I don't believe they've painted old Calvary Church since I left home, and there was an agitation then to paint it."

At the next corner he stopped for several minutes to look into the windows of the hardware store. A smile of mingled pathos and humor crept over his face.

"I don't believe Father has changed the windows since I saw them last," he said. "There's the old farm implement picture on the side wall; there's the same old pyramid of paint cans, and I suppose that tray of jack-knives is the one he bought in 1900."

He turned the corner and walked up the side street, making comments as he went.

"Bill Graves' fence looks a few pickets more shy than it used to; the vacant lot at the corner of Center street continue to be the main depository of rubbish, and Hiram Jenkins' barn is still waiting for its first coat of paint. The song is wrong," he murmured again. "The old home's just what it used to be."

Then his gaze turned across the street in the direction of a pretty park.

"I've been a little harsh," he said. "There isn't a more attractive town anywhere than Maybridge would be if the few rusty spots could only be brightened up. There's Grace Park with its fine old trees and pretty flower gardens; there's the Spencer home with its magnificent grounds, and there's the row of fine old residences along Elm street. Why, Maybridge has all the essentials of an ideal town, but it sure does need a little making over."

Then the young man's thoughts turned to the dear ones he was about to surprise, and a few moments later there was a fond greeting in the old homestead.

Ten years before George Hollister, then out of his teens, had left Maybridge to make his way in a large Western city. Starting with a small position, the income of which barely kept him alive, he had risen rapidly. Each year he wrote home that at the first opportunity he would return for a visit. But new and greater responsibilities forced him to defer the home-going until a decade had slipped by. His last advancement had made George's time his own, and without warning he had quietly returned to surprise and delight his parents and younger sister.

Renewing acquaintances occupied the larger part of the next day, and in the evening his proud father took him to the monthly meeting of the Men's Club of Cavalry Church.

After a long drawn out and uninteresting talk on foreign missions by a visiting minister, the president of the club, Josiah Stubbs, arose and said:

"It's been a pleasure for many of us tonight to meet again Sam Hollister's boy, George. George has been workin' in a big city for some time, and I'm going to ask him to tell us how it seems to get back to good old Maybridge. Mr. Hollister, will you oblige us?"

And then he abruptly changed the subject.

"I've always felt," he said, "that I would like to do something for Maybridge. I haven't prospered to the extent of being able to endow any of your, or rather our, institutions, but, during the month I am to spend at home, if you so desire, I will make my donation in the form of service."

He paused, and the forty-two members of the Men's Club looked puzzled.

"May I ask," enquired the president, "of what this service would consist?"

"Certainly," replied George. "It would be an effort to brighten up Maybridge."

He paused again, and the puzzled look of the assembly was changing into an expression of resentment.

"I don't understand," interposed Abner Wethersbee; "in fact, I didn't know that Maybridge was in need of brightenin' up."

"I will try to make myself clear," George went on. "When I stepped from the train yesterday the dilapidated old station, the junk piles along the tracks, the broken walk to Main street, and the mud on sidewalk and pavement, gave anything but a favorable impression. Even before I left the train a traveling salesman told me he had business here but that he was going on to Montclair to spend the night. In a joking way he said he was afraid to stay here because the few street lamps were so dirty he might get lost on the way from the station to the hotel."

Ezra Galpin.

"I'd formulate a set of rules," replied George, "and I'd ask every resident to co-operate in seeing these rules enforced."

James Dunkle, the town's oldest lawyer, arose.

"I move, Mr. President," he said, "that a committee be appointed to look into this matter and report at the next monthly meeting."

"Pardon me for interrupting," put in George, "but I will only be here a month, and in order to make my service effective, the campaign should be commenced at once."

HER CONSCIENCE

WAS HURTING HER

A few days ago a negress walked into the Grand Leader and planked down 48c, saying it was for a pair of shoes she had taken out without paying for some three or four years previously. Without further explanation she departed. A day or two later Mr. Rosenfield received a note from her stating that she had forgotten to ask his forgiveness and begging that he would do so.

Worth Framing.

Here is a "character" given to a servant on leaving her last situation: "The bearer has been in my house a year, less 11 months. During this time she has shown herself diligent at the house door, frugal in work, mindful of herself, prompt in excuses, friendly towards men, faithful to her lovers, and honest when everything was out of the way."—London Tit-Bits.

Kind That Goes Astray.

A dispatch from Pottsville, Pa., says that a letter mailed 52 years ago has just reached its destination in that city. Without reading the story, we are willing to wager 10 to 1 that it contained a remittance that the addressee simply had to have the day after it was written or have all sorts of trouble.

This evening the Airdome will present two fine pictures. The first will be The Comedian's Mask, a two-reel feature in which King Baggot is the star. The Spider, is a Japanese drama played by real Japs. Coming next Monday: Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, a great four-reel picture.

"The Seal of Silence" is a thrilling drama of both the East and West. It shows a strike in which a riot and burning of the factory are striking incidents. The central figure is a man unjustly arrested and imprisoned and the chain of circumstances through which he is united with his family years later. De Sota theatre.

BUSY TIMES WITH THE OFFICERS

Sunday night a party composed of Chief Cal Bolin, Deputy Sheriffs R. C. Duncan and Eli Morris and County Attorney Roland made a raid on a house on East Main street in which they captured five gallons of corn whiskey. They also arrested Sol Driver and Jess Powell in connection with the case.

C. W. Walker was arrested Sunday on a charge of forgery. G. H. Humphrey of near Bebee was arrested this morning on a charge of rape.

Sunday night Chief Bolin and Patrolman Ralls had a lively chase after a negro they attempted to arrest in the negro quarter. He was rather too well tanked up and was threatening trouble when the officers happened along and were appealed to. In his haste the negro forgot his shoes and when the officers fired a few shots in his direction he got up a speed that carried him out of the city.

COMMITTEES MAKE REPORT OF CONTEST

A meeting of the various committees in the clean town contest was held at the city hall Sunday afternoon and a report was had from each. All committees reported more or less progress and all seemed encouraged with the reception they had met from the citizens.

To handle the work more expeditiously it was suggested that a general chairman of all the committees should be elected. Rev. M. B. Molloy was unanimously elected as the leader. The committees will continue their work this week and good results are expected all along the line.

Bracelet of Gold, 1,000 Years Old, Recently Found in One of the Shetland Islands.

A 1,000-year-old bracelet was found by a boy on the island of Oxa, Shetland, recently. Mr. Gilbert Goudie, at the monthly meeting of the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland, held in the museum, Edinburgh, told the interesting story of the bracelet, which has been acquired by the museum. Mr. Goudie related how the bracelet had come to light on a bare spot which had been scalped over and over again to provide extra soil for adjacent cultivation, and by its glitter in the sunlight had attracted the attention of the boy playing near. It is of solid gold, 2 1/2 inches in width in interior diameter at its greatest width, and it weighs 964 grains troy. It is formed of four strands of metal finely polished, and interlaced in a continuous circular chain. In workmanship it compares with certain armlets and necklets of silver, part of a hoard of objects found in 1858 at Skall, in Orkney, but otherwise it is unique as being the only object of gold of this interlaced pattern that is so far known to have been found in the country, though a very limited number are preserved in the archaeological collections of Sweden, Norway and Denmark. As a product of the late iron age of the Viking times, the date of its manufacture may be between 800 and 1000 A. D.

Stork and Cupid Cunning Plotters

Many a New Home will Have a Little Sunbeam to Brighten It.

There is usually a certain degree of dread in every woman's mind as to the probable pain, distress and danger of child-birth. But, thanks to a most remarkable remedy known as Mother's Friend, all fear is banished and the period is one of unbounded, joyful anticipation.

Mother's Friend is used externally. It is a most penetrating application, makes the muscles of the stomach and abdomen pliant so they expand easily and naturally without pain, without distress and with none of that peculiar nausea, nervousness and other symptoms that tend to weaken the prospective mother. Thus Cupid and the stork are held up to veneration; they are rated as cunning plotters to herald the coming of a little sunbeam to gladden the hearts and brighten the homes of a host of happy families.

There are thousands of women who have used Mother's Friend, and thus know from experience that it is one of our greatest contributions to healthy, happy motherhood. It is sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle, and is especially recommended as a preventive of caking breasts and all other such distresses.

Write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 181 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their very valuable book to expectant mothers. Get a bottle of Mother's Friend today.

CONDITION OF COTTON CROP JULY 18

By J. B. Turner, Memphis.

Extremely favorable reports on the week's developments in cotton fields are received from the central states where the supply of moisture from recent rains has been abundant. In Georgia and the Carolinas there are some dry areas, which send in complaints, though as a whole these states have done and are still doing well, and the plant is fruiting splendidly. In Texas and Oklahoma complaints arise more generally from high temperatures than lack of rainfall and it is frequently stated by correspondents that a moderation of the heat will abate such complaints as arise. A limited portion of central Texas and some sections of the west seem in need of rain, but elsewhere in the state there is enough moisture for present needs.

There is universal report of heavy fruiting. Nowhere has the plant attained a rank growth. It is on the contrary stocky and healthy and well loaded with squares and young bolls. It remains undersized in localities but this is a much less general fact than two weeks ago.

The crop is being "laid by" in most excellent condition and is in a state to withstand well the usual summer vicissitudes.

Boll weevils are quite numerous in Mississippi and Louisiana and are doing some damage and hold a threat against the crop for the remainder of the summer. In Texas, however, very little damage is reported save in the most southern districts where cotton is already maturing. In Arkansas they are not yet a factor.

Cotton is beginning to open in southern Georgia and in southern Texas picking will begin over considerable areas within about two weeks.

By States.

North Carolina—Favorable week. Cotton growing and blooming freely. Much still small. Best condition east and southeast. Worst in west.

South Carolina—General rains would be welcome. Local showers have given relief, but not generally. Quite dry in spots. Plant healthy and taking on squares rapidly.

Georgia—State as whole did fairly well during week. Some sections advancing rapidly having had rains. Others dry and complaining. Plant fruiting fast. Quikman reports open bolls. General rain is needed.

Alabama—Crop in high condition and being laid by well. Local rains did not cover state and some sections needing moisture, but not acutely. More weevils in southwest, but doing damage only over limited area.

Mississippi—Only complaint arises from weevils which are numerous over 60 per cent of states area. Plant growing fast and fruiting heavily. Fields in fine cultivation and moisture generally abundant.

Tennessee—Fine crop. Plenty of rain, rapid growth, good fruiting. Soil conditions splendid.

Arkansas—Plant exceptionally well fruited. No rank growth, but healthy and developing well. Soil moisture generally sufficient. Boll weevils not numerous as rule.

Louisiana—Boll weevils plentiful and form basis for only complaint. But despite them, many correspondents estimate crop in excess of last year for other conditions are quite favorable.

Oklahoma—Cotton still splendid, but growing rather less rapidly and shows some effects of extreme high temperatures. Rain not badly needed but would be generally beneficial.

Texas—Some slight loss in condition for week is indicated because of high temperatures and lack of rainfall in central and western counties. (North and east doing quite well. Condition remains high, but rain would help materially although cessation of high temperatures has already given much relief. In south cotton is beginning to open rather freely and is shedding some with weevils numerous. Promise is for good crop.

Roger A. Pryor is 85.

New York, July 19.—Judge Roger A. Pryor, former justice of the supreme court of New York and one of the few surviving generals of the Confederate States Army, attained his eighty-fifth birthday anniversary today. Judge Pryor is a native of Virginia and in early life was a congressional representative from that state. At the beginning of the civil war he was elected a member of the first Confederate States Congress. Later he entered the Southern army as a colonel and rose to the rank of brigadier-general. After the war he located in New York city, where he became one of the noted leaders of the bench and bar.

TO SAVE COUNTRY CHURCH

Manhattan, Kas., July 21.—Many rural pastors, educators and others assembled at the State Agricultural College here today to discuss the important problem of the country church and its future. It is declared there are upwards of 1,000 country churches in Kansas abandoned and deserted because of lack of interest in church work. The problem is one that is common to all of the middle Western States.

The automobile is declared to be chiefly responsible for the decline of the church in the small community. Owing to the coming of the motor car to the farm, distance has become such a small factor that the farmer who owns a machine is tempted to leave the little church in the country and take his family to the larger house of worship in town, where he will hear a pipe organ and a better choir, and where the pews are a little more comfortable. As a result, many rural congregations have dwindled and churches have been deserted.

IDLE WEEK FOR THE FIGHTERS

New York, July 21.—The dulllest week the fight game has had in years is in prospect. From one end of the country to the other there is not a fight of any consequence carded for the ensuing seven days. Evidently the promoters think the weather too hot for a profitable show, or perhaps the knights of the squared circle are all on their summer vacations. All the fight clubs in the metropolis have closed their doors and will not resume business until about Labor day. The Atlantic A. A., where the fight fans may enjoy their favorite sport and the cool breezes of Rockaway Beach at the same time, affords the only oasis in the barren desert. The Atlantic A. A. managers have arranged to give a show tomorrow night with a ten round bout between Billy Bennett, hailed as the lightweight champion of Ireland, and Harry Condon of Brooklyn, as the main event.

Supt. W. T. Melton has created a new school district, which will be known as District No. 63, in the north west part of the county. It embraces territory carved from Bebee, Worstell and Egypt districts.

THE Melting of Molly

SYNOPSIS

The teller of the story, Molly Carter, a young widow, awaiting the return of Al Bennett, an old flame, who is now a distinguished diplomat, tries to reduce weight. Her physician, adviser and next door neighbor is Dr. John, a widower and father of young Billy, whom Molly loves.

Molly is surprised at play with Billy by Judge Wade, who is the most dignified and able man in Hillsboro. Billy comes over from next door with his father.

Hillsboro receives a visit from Ruth Chester, a friend of Bennett, and Molly finds her delightful. Molly goes to the city for an outfit of clothing.

The subject of the conduct of widows is a serious one. Of all the things old tradition is most set about it is that, and what was decided to be the proper thing a million years ago this town still dictates shall be done and spends a good deal of its time seeing its directions carried out. For a year after the funeral they forget about the poor bereaved, and when they do remember her they speak to and of her in the same tones of voice they used at the obsequies. Then sooner or later some neighbor is sure to see some man walk home from church with her or hear some old bachelor's voice on her front porch. Mr. Cain took Mrs. Caruther's little Jessie up in his buggy and helped her out at her mother's gate just before last Christmas, and if the poor widow hadn't acted quick the town would have noticed them to death before he proposed to her. They were married the day after New Year's, and she lost lots of good friends because she didn't give them more time to talk about it.

I don't intend to run any risk of losing my friends that way, and I want them to have all the good time they can get out of it. I'm going to serve out mint juleps of excitement until the dear old place is running as it did when it was a two-year-old. Why get mad when people are interested in you? It's a compliment, after all, and just gives them more to think about. I remembered the two trucks across the hall and hugged my knees up under my chin with pleasure at the thought of the town talk they contained.

Then just as I had got the first plan well going and was deciding whether to wear the mauve meteor or the white chiffon with the rosebud embroidery as a first julep for my friends a sweetness came in through my window that took my breath away, and I lay still with my hand over my heart and listened. It was Billy singing right under my window, and I've never heard him do it before in all his five years. It was the dearest old fashioned tune ever written, and Billy sang the words as distinctly as if he had been a boy chorister doing a difficult recitative.

"Say, Molly, look at the snake I brought you!"

My heart beat so it shook the lace on my breast like a breeze from heaven as he took the high note and then let it go on the last few words:

"If you love me, Molly, darling, let your answer be a kiss!"

A confused recollection of having heard the words and tune sung by my mother when I was at the rocking age myself brought the tears to my eyes as I flew to the window and parted the curtains. If you heard a little boy angel singing at your casement wouldn't you expect a cherubim face upturned with heaven lights all over it? Billy's face was upturned as he heard me draw the shade, but it was streaked like a wild Indian's with decorations of brown mud, and he held a long slim feather on the end of a stick while he wiped his other grimy hand down the front of his knee blouse.

"Say, Molly, look at the snake I brought you!" he exclaimed as he came close under the sill, which is not high from the ground. "If you put your face down to the mud and sing something to 'em they'll come outen they holes. A doodle bug comed, too, but I couldn't ketch 'em both. Lift me up, and I can put him in the water glass on your table." He held up one muddy paddle to me, and promptly I lifted him up into my arms. From the embrace in which he and the worm and I indulged my lace and dimity came out much the worse.

"That was a lovely song you sang about 'Molly, darling, Billy,' I said.

"Where did you hear it?"

"That's a good bug song, Molly, and I bet I can get a lizard with it, too, if I sing it right low." He began to squirm out of my arms toward the table and the glass.

"Who taught it to you, sugar sweet?" I persisted as I poured water in on the squirming worm under his direction.

"Nobody taught it to me. Doc sings it to me when Tilly, nurse nor you ain't there to put me to bed. He don't know no good songs like 'Roll, Jordan, Roll,' or 'Hot Times' or 'Twinkle.' I go to sleep quick 'cause he makes me feel tired with his slow tune what's only good for bugs. Gilt a hairpin for me to poke him with, Molly, quick!"

I found the hairpin, and I don't know why my hand trembled as I handed it to Billy. As soon as he got it he climbed out the window, glass, bug and all, and I saw him and the red setter go down the garden walk together in pursuit of the desired lizard, I suppose. I closed the blinds and drew the curtains again and flung myself on my pillow. Something warm and sweet seemed to be sweeping over me in great waves, and I felt young and close up to some sort of big world good. It was delicious, and I don't know how long I would have stayed there just feeling it if Judy hadn't brought in my letter.

He had written from London, and it was many pages of wonderful things all flavored with me. He told me about Miss Chester and what good friends they were and how much he hoped she would be in Hillsboro when he got there. He said that a great many of her dainty ways reminded him of his "own slip of a girl," especially the turn of her head like a "flower on its stem." At that I got right out of bed like a jack jumping out of a box and looked at myself in the mirror.

There is one exercise here on page twenty that I hate worst of all. You screw up your face tight until you look like a Christmas mask to get your neck muscles taut and then wobble your head around like a newborn baby until it swims. I did that one twenty extra times and all the others in proportion to make up for those two hours in bed. Hereafter I'll get up at the time directed on page three or maybe earlier. It frightens me to think that I've got only a few weeks more to turn from a cabbage rose into a lily. I won't let myself even think "luscious peach" and "string bean." If I do I get warm and happy all over and let up on myself. I try when I get hungry to think of myself in that blue muslin dress.

I haven't been really willing before to write down in this torture volume that I took that garment to the city with me and what Mme. Rene did to it—made it over into the loveliest thing I ever saw. Only I wouldn't let her alter the size one single inch. I'm honorable as all women are, at peculiar times. I think she understood, but she seemed not to and worked a miracle on it with ribbon and lace. I've put it away on the top shelf of a closet, for it is torment to look at it.

You can just take any old recipe for a party and mix up a debut for a girl, but it takes more time to concoct one for a widow, especially if it is for yourself. I spent all the rest of the day doing almost nothing and thinking until I felt lightheaded. Finally I had just about given up any idea of a blaze and had decided to leak out in general society as quietly as my clothes would let me when a real conflagration was lighted inside me.

If Tom Pollard wasn't my own first cousin I would have loved him desperately even if I am a week older than he. He was about the only oasis in my marriage mirage, though I don't think anybody would think of calling him at all green. He never stopped coming to see me occasionally, and Mr. Carter liked him. He was the first man to notice the white ruche I sewed in the neck of my old black taffeta four or five months ago, and he let me see that he noticed it out of the corner of his eyes even right there in church under Aunt Adeline's very elbow. He makes love unconsciously, and he flirts with his own mother. As soon as I've made this widowhood hurdle-well, I'm going to spend a lot of time buying tobacco with him in his runabout, which sounds as if it was named for himself.

AND when that conflagration was lighted in me, Tom did it. I was sitting peacefully on my front steps, dressed in the summer before last that Judy washes and irons every day while I'm deciding how to hand out the first slip of my trouseau to the neighbors, when Tom, in a dangerous blue striped shirt, with a tie that melted into it in tone, blew over my hedge and landed at my side. He kissed the lace ruffle on my sleeve while I reproved him severely and settled down to enjoy him. But I didn't have such an awfully good time as I generally do with him. He was too full of another woman, and even a first cousin can be an exasperation in that condition.

GERMAN SYSTEM OF CO-OPERATIVE BANKING

Weisbaden, Germany, July 17.—The American Commission on Agricultural Co-operation came to Weisbaden from Heidelberg, where half a day had been spent visiting typical local Raiffeisen societies in the neighboring farming communities. A sub-committee of the Commission remained in Heidelberg to attend the meetings of the convention of Raiffeisen Co-operative officials which began there today.

The first institution visited by the Commission in Weisbaden was the Nassau District Mortgage Credit Bank, a government institution extending mortgage loans at cost, principally for the benefit of small farmers who predominate in Nassau. It was the first institution of this type visited by the commission.

The bank was organized in 1840 by the government of what was then the Grand Duchy of Nassau. It has continued in the mortgage business ever since and has never lost a dollar to its bond holders. The method of business is the same as that followed by practically all mortgage institutions of Europe—that is, it accepts mortgages on real estate and issues land bonds equal in amount to the mortgages. The bonds are split up into small amounts, as low as $25 in order that small investors can buy them. The money received by the bank from the sale of the bonds is used to supply money to the farmers on their mortgages. The bonds are secured by the mortgages. But the holder of the bond looks only to the bank to pay the interest and principal of his bond. The bank assumes the responsibility for the payments of the farmer and it is this feature which makes investors more willing to buy the bonds than they are to buy the mortgages offered by American farmers, and also which makes the investors willing to accept a lower rate of interest. The bank carries on this business as nearly as possible without profit. Where a profit is made it is turned over to the government to reduce the taxes of the landowners.

In the case of the mortgage bank of Nassau, however, there is a second guarantee placed behind the land bonds the guarantee of the government. When Nassau was an autonomous German state the guarantee was given by the government of the Grand Duchy of Nassau. Nassau has been absorbed by Prussia and there is a provision in the constitution of that state forbidding the government to guarantee the obligations of a company which is permitted to assume unlimited indebtedness. Therefore the guarantee of the land bonds of the Nassau bank was turned over to the communes of the Administrative District of Nassau. This is, however, a strong government guarantee and the sufficiency of it is proven in the high price, 99, maintained by 4 per cent bonds of the Nassau bank.

To make the overmen's guarantee safe, conduct of the bank is placed directly under control of the Assembly of the Administrative District. The actual business of the bank is carried on by a directorate. A farmer desiring to mortgage his farm goes first to the court of registration. The system of land registration in Germany is thoroughly perfected and this is one of the most essential features to a successful land credit system. By the court the farmer is given a paper establishing his title and describing his property. This paper is sent to the land bank with the application for a loan. All loans are restricted to 50 per cent of the value of the land on first mortgage. If the loan be granted the farmer's mortgage is registered and also the bank records with the mortgage the fact that bonds to an equal amount have been issued. The entire transaction costs the farmer about $20. The bond draws interest at the lowest practicable rate—now 4 1/2 per cent because of a bad money market—and the farmer pays to the bank this same rate of interest, plus enough to cover the expenses of the bank. This is about 1-2 per cent in an economically conducted institution. Besides this payment, the farmer pays each year a fixed amount in a mortization charge—that is a fixed amount which is used to reduce the principal of his loan. In the German Landschaften institutions the payment of this amortization charge is optional with the farmer. In the Nassau institution payment of amortization charges is obligatory and the value of this law was clearly demonstrated to the American Commissioners by the bank director, who presented a table to show the comparative freedom of debt of the Nassau farmers. Through this practice the farmers of Nassau are required each year to pay off their indebtedness.

The most interesting feature of the Nassau bank is the government guarantee given the bonds. There is a division of opinion among the members of the American Commission as to the advisability of government guarantees for land bonds. Those opposed to the plan point out that if the farmers defaulted in their payments it would become necessary for the government as the guarantor to dispossess the farmers of their land, and they assert that there is apt to be so much politics in the situation in the United States that the legislature of a state would be inclined to saddle the loss upon the state rather than make enemies of the farmers by selling their lands at auction.
